

Diablo Dish: City Center Bishop Ranch Is Getting Some Good Eats

Fieldwork Brewing Co.

San Ramon's City Center Announces Eats and Drinks

Headlined by Berkeley-based craft brewery Fieldwork Brewing Co., City Center Bishop Ranch already has salivary glands warming up for its fall 2018 opening. The sixth Fieldwork taproom—and its many high-quality beers—also features a food menu, but burger aficionados will be happy to find yet another Roam Artisan Burgers (that's six, if you're counting) in the city center as well.

Tri-Valley fans of Walnut Creek's Ramen Hiroshi will no longer have to navigate the nasty traffic on 680 to get their fix of free-range chicken and prime ingredients in any of the ramen dishes on the menu.

Of course, no self-respecting shopping area could be without Boba tea, and the Boba Guys—with six other Bay Area outlets, plus a presence in New York—will fill that critical need.

And don't forget the anchor tenant, The Lot luxury theater, which will not only have 10 screens and 800 seats, but also a full bar, restaurant, and café.

Orinda's Wild Magnolia to Be Replaced by Indian Restaurant

Orinda Theatre Square is getting a new restaurant, as Wild Magnolia will shut down in late February or early March and be replaced by Saffron—an Indian restaurant.
